

Statement of Concern – COVID-19: Human rights, disability and ethical decision-making

14 April 2020

This Statement of Concern is made by internationally recognised independent experts in the area of human rights, bioethics and disability who have come together to emphasise key human rights principles and standards that need to underpin ethical decision-making in the context of disability and the COVID-19 pandemic.

Downloads

Media Release: 15 April 2020 \(Word document\)

Statement of Concern – COVID-19: Human rights, disability and ethical decision-making \(PDF\)

Statement of Concern – COVID-19: Human rights, disability and ethical decision-making \(Word document\)

Plain English Version of Statement of Concern – COVID-19: Human rights, disability and ethical decision-making \(Word document\)

Easy-Read Version: Human rights, disability and good decisions \(PDF\)

Endorsements

If you, or your organisation, wishes to endorse this Statement of Concern, please email carolyn@wwda.org.au. Logos are not required.